ABOUT THIS EVENT

This short course will discuss various issues relating to the legal and doctrinal framework surrounding trade finance transactions, focusing in particular upon: (a) the impact that burgeoning bank regulatory requirements and technology are having upon the law and practice of trade finance; (b) recent judicial developments across the leading trade finance centres; and (c) a re-examination and refresher of those key areas that tend to provide recurring difficulties for the trade finance practitioner. The short course will aim to provide useful material not only for those new to this area of practice, but also some food for thought for seasoned practitioners.
